

8 New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, November 1.—Operations on the stock market to-day were of an exceedingly desultory character, and the interest in the market was very languid. The business day intervening before the election-day holiday had a deterrent effect on the traders, and there was no participation in the market. The absence of the all-sinners holiday in London and Paris to-day also subtracted greatly from the volume of the day's business, and rendered the market of an index of sentiment on the international money outlook, which is much relied on at present. The money markets proper went encouraging news from abroad. The minor members of the steel group, especially the railroad equipment stocks, were at a lower price than had been anticipated. The report to a stock issue at all in place of a bond issue is testimony to the faulty investment demand, and the fact that bearing securities which has been remarked in the bond market throughout the latter stages of the active speculative demand for a long time. The stock market tone became somewhat drooping after the news of the Pennsylvania directors' action, which was at a lower price than had been anticipated.
